

Broughty Ferry Baptist Church Public Bible Reading Seminar

Reading the Bible aloud in the Church has always been a central part of our church life. Many of us have indulged ourselves in this but have you ever stopped and thought about how it was read? How that reading was delivered? Was it put across in the best way possible? Did I deliver it in a way that made the most of the passage? Was the message expressed sufficiently clearly enough so that everyone understood it?

These sorts of questions and others beside will be addressed at a session where we look at how we present the reading of the Bible for public hearing. We are often told of good story tellers or orators but it's not necessarily the story or what they're saying that makes them good, it's how they tell the story or present their lecture that decides their reputation.

Come along to discover the best kept secrets of presenting a Bible passage to the public – who knows even if you never achieve a public reading, it may just make your private reading come to life and give it a whole new meaning.
